Pamela C. Isaacson
Executive Vice President

Pamela C. Isaacson is Bank of Southern California’s Executive Vice President, Chief Administrative Officer, and a member of the company’s executive management team. In this role, she is responsible for the leadership and daily oversight of multiple departments, including Branch Banking, Compliance and Risk Management, Bank Secrecy Act, Treasury Services, Information Technology, Audit, and Facilities.

Pamela joined Bank of Southern California in 2008 and was instrumental in growing the Bank from $84 million to over $1.5 billion in assets. As a critical member of the executive team, she has successfully led the company through seven acquisitions over a period of ten years, increasing the Bank’s footprint from three branches in San Diego County to fifteen branches covering five Southern California counties.

With a commitment to supporting the banking needs of Southern California’s communities, Pamela has spent her entire 35-year career representing in-market commercial banks. She began her career with San Diego Trust & Savings Bank where she served as a vital member of the management teams charged with leading the company through multiple mergers and branch acquisitions. Having held various leadership positions covering Branch Management, Treasury Services, and more, it was her expertise in Treasury Management that ultimately led to the redesign of Bank of Southern California’s product and service offerings to attract small to mid-sized businesses to the bank.

Pamela holds a bachelor’s degree in Business from the University of Phoenix.

Kayla Schultz, CPA, is a senior manager at CohnReznick LLP and is based out of the Firm’s San Diego office. Kayla serves public and private companies across a variety of industries, with deep experience in the renewable energy and technology industries. For assurance clients, she plans and executes engagements seamlessly between client and internal teams across the country and with our international operations team. Kayla has developed specialized expertise within renewable energy advising multi-billion dollar corporate investors and sponsors investing across energy infrastructure investments with diverse technologies that serve residential, commercial and industrial, and utility scale off-takers. This deep industry acumen includes technical accounting matters, financial structuring and modeling, as well overall business and industry issues that facilitate and expedite transaction execution.

Kayla’s strong technical skills help her identify and efficiently resolve various technical accounting issues, including business combinations, investment accounting and consolidation, revenue recognition, complex equity and debt financing transactions, and leasing arrangements. Her management skills and detailed service approach have allowed her teams to move clients beyond compliance matters to focus on operational efficiency and standardization across their accounting and reporting platforms. Kayla excels at mentorship and people development. She is a national assurance instructor for CohnReznick and leads both internal and external trainings. She is a member of the San Diego chapter of WRISE (Women of Renewable Industries and Sustainable Energy), which the Firm also sponsors on a national-level. Kayla mentors and coaches her team members through both formal coaching programs and informal mentoring and is involved in several local and national committees within CohnReznick. In her young career, she has worked to retool the Firm’s workforce in San Diego and upskill personnel across the firm.

Briana Elvaiah is the Chief Financial Officer of Cortica, a high-growth tech-enabled autism services company revolutionizing the standard of care for neurodevelopmental differences.

Briana oversees the Finance, Accounting, Operational Analytics, Revenue Cycle, and HR functions at Cortica. Since assuming the CFO role in early 2019, she has overseen massive expansion for Cortica, while maintaining excellence in clinical quality and customer service. She has helped establish 7 Cortica centers in Northern and Southern California, with additional centers planned outside the state. Each center has the goal of employing over 80 therapists and administrators and serving well over 500 families.

Briana is particularly skilled at partnering with clinicians throughout the organization to drive clinical quality, operational excellence, and teamwork well-being. She is an inspiring service leader.

Prior to joining Cortica, she served as CFO at Correctional Medical Group Companies, Inc., a national provider of medical, mental health, and dental services to county jails. She was previously Executive Vice President of Finance and Revenue Cycle at Verticare Management, Inc., a leading provider of mental health services for seniors. Briana earned her BScC from the University of San Diego. Briana is most proud that she has helped deliver high quality care to over 750,000 patients, all of whom have been underserved populations (elderly, inmates, and children with developmental differences) with an emphasis on behavioral and mental health.

She lives in San Diego with her husband, five-year-old son, and nine-month-old daughter—who have been known to make welcomed appearances on Zoom calls to reinforce a Cortica core value “We are all about family.”

Jan Ivey personifies the values and commitment that businesses need when they are in search of alternate commercial lending. She is a key team member at Crestmark, a division of MetaBank®, whose goal is financial inclusion for all. An asset-based financing expert, Jan offers an extensive knowledge of funding options; her broad thinking and creative execution focus know-how into structured capital solutions for companies experiencing high growth— as well as those facing turn around.

Jan’s 25+ year financial background includes a full spectrum of services and an understanding of comprehensive initiatives in support of client growth. As a previous entrepreneur, she has an affinity with lower middle-market companies and understands the competitive landscape and internal/external pressures CEOs face daily.

“There is nothing more rewarding than creating a financial solution that provides a client the runway they need to grow — even potentially save — their life’s work and dreams,” said Jan. “The ability to assist businesses and allow them to keep their employees working is meaningful. The current economy is presenting new and unprecedented challenges; my goal is to meet each client with a distinct approach that can provide measurable success.”

Jan holds a bachelor’s degree in professional studies from San Diego State University. She volunteers as board of director chairman for Serna Academy, a high school providing sobriety and support programs for students in Orange County.

“Jan’s knowledge and collaborative work ethic make her a trusted advisor to companies in California,” says Senior Vice President/Group Manager Steve Hansen. “We’re honored to have her on our team.”

Ivy Zhang is Controller of Evofem Biosciences, where she is responsible for managing financial risk, guiding decision-making, and leading the SEC/SOX compliance, accounting and audit functions. Ivy joined Evofem shortly after the Company emerged from a complicated reverse merger transaction in 2018. Ivy has since exceeded all expectations, elevating Evofem’s already strong reporting processes and ensuring precision across all accounting procedures and internal control systems in preparation for the launch of a new, first-in-class, hormone-free contraceptive option for millions of women in the United States.

Prior to her role as Controller, Ivy led Evofem’s SEC Reporting and SOX Compliance function, where she maintained the Company’s internal control documentation and led consultants in successfully implementing numerous process improvements across the organization. Previously, she served in senior management roles at SeaSpine Holdings Corporation, where she was tasked with leading the Company’s external reporting, financial accounting and tax functions. From 2008 to 2015, Ivy provided her expertise to Ernst & Young as an Assurance Manager, navigating an IPO, corporate audit and numerous client filings.

Ivy’s contributions have spanned the pharmaceutical, medical device, energy trading, architecture and private equity industries. She holds a Master’s in Assurance from Virginia Tech and received a Master’s in Economics from the University of Victoria.

Ivy is a trusted leader who is dedicated to advancing the Company’s mission of addressing the unmet sexual and reproductive health needs of women. She is also the loving mother of two children and incredibly adept at balancing the demands of both roles.

Cathy Behnen is the Chief Financial Officer of Jamul Casino®. She has over 15 years of experience in financial leadership, improving business processes, and increasing profitability. She is passionate about managing finances in the gaming industry, where the numbers are dynamic and directly connected to the gaming floor. As CFO, Ms. Behnen is responsible for the financial management of Jamul Casino. She also contributes to the overall direction of the Casino as part of its leadership team. The Casino’s recent handling of COVID is a point of particular pride. In addition to creating a detailed operating plan, leadership produced a video sent to all team members in advance of reopening. It tied the Casino’s mission of excellent service to its new COVID protocols, and initiated a culture of open communication about safety in this season.

Ms. Behnen previously served as the VP of Finance and Corporate Controller for The Cosmopolitan of Las Vegas. It was here that she felt at home within the gaming industry, and found the excitement of the casino floor energizing to her work with the finances. She also worked at SunEdison as the Head of Internal Audit and VP of Operations, and as a Partner at Rubin Brown LLP. She is a Certified Public Accountant.

Ms. Behnen earned her BS in Accounting from the University of Missouri-Columbia and her MBA from Saint Louis University. She credits her parents’ entrepreneurial spirit, especially her mother’s successful management of multiple businesses—as influential from a young age.

Gina Ellen is one of the youngest financial advisors in San Diego, relative to her level of experience, whose primary mission is empowering women to take control of their financial health. Gina educates all her clients in the importance of financial literacy, but she makes it a point to focus on a group that often gets overlooked, and that’s women.

Boston College’s Wealth and Philanthropy Center estimates that two-thirds of the nation’s wealth will be in the control of women by 2030 and, still, in the case of heterosexual relationships, Gina finds that many advisors still tend to direct conversations to the male. She feels that needs to change. As such, she is quite involved with organizations with similar missions, including Lean In San Diego, 2020 Women On Boards, and 321 Empower.

Gina advises small and mid-size company owners on tax-efficient retirement planning in the design, implementation and ongoing investment management of 401(k)s, defined benefit and cash balance plans that seek to optimize key person recruitment and retention, business succession-planning, and tax mitigation.

In light of the COVID-19 pandemic, Gina and her team at JET Wealth Advisors are providing complimentary plan health analyses for employers that currently have a retirement plan in place as well as complimentary consultations for employers who are racing to create a plan by the first CalSavers deadline of September 30th.

CalSavers is California’s new savings program available to California workers whose employers don’t offer a workplace retirement plan. Employers with 100+ employees (including part-time and seasonal) need to decide whether to participate in CalSavers or create their own plan by September 30th. Gina is happy to consult on all retirement plan options.

Gina can be reached by phone at 858.457.1028 or by email at gina.ellen@jetwealthadvisors.com.

Erin Polek

Erin Polek is defining “best” in her discipline: she manages the day-to-day accounting operations of a $25 billion company, is introducing new systems and standards, and is pioneering the use of robotics process automation in accounting. Erin has also devoted time to increasing retention of women in Qualcomm’s workforce through the Women’s Leadership Council.

Erin recently helped Qualcomm adopt new accounting guidance, which required implementing a new system and processes and testing the environment for six months prior to a seamless launch day. Erin led the efforts to optimize the accounting shared services center in India, including implementation of key metrics to monitor completeness, accuracy and timeliness.

Erin’s department supports the strategic objectives of Qualcomm and is tasked with creating efficiencies in what is already a well-run organization. Erin has turned to technology, specifically robotics process automation (RPA), to drive forward in these areas. Working in collaboration with Qualcomm’s IT department, the accounting department was the first in the Company to use RPA, empowering robotics to take on administrative work in her department while her staff are freed up to contribute analytical thinking and insights to business unit leads.

Erin graduated from SDSU and began work at PwC in 1997. In 2006, she joined Qualcomm as an accounting staff and earned the vice president title in 2015. In 2017, she was appointed as Interim Co-Controller, and in 2018, she became Chief Accounting Officer.

Elizabeth Redican
Branch Manager
STATE COMPENSATION INSURANCE FUND

Liz Redican is the Manager of the San Diego Branch of the State Compensation Insurance Fund, the largest provider of Workers’ Compensation in California. With approximately 110,000 policyholders, Californians rely on the security and certainty offered by State Fund, particularly the small businesses and new ventures that are key to California’s economy.

Liz works directly with insurance brokers representing local employers to meet their Workers’ Compensation needs. Her primary role is to grow business, build relationships, resolve customer issues, and showcase State Fund. Liz is a San Diego County native. She opened the San Diego office in 2019, establishing a local presence for brokers and employers to have more direct access to State Fund products and workplace safety services.

In response to the COVID-19 crisis, State Fund is offering a total of $100 million in grants to its policyholders for essential businesses and for those purchasing safety-related equipment to help businesses that are reopening. Many local businesses have been able to secure a portion of these grants.

Liz was very successful in her prior role as Assistant Regional Vice President in the Central Valley, leading her team to over 50% new business growth. Liz has accomplished much in the first year of opening the branch office, exceeding her annual goals by July!

“Since returning here to my hometown, it is really rewarding to walk by a local restaurant or shop and know that we insure that business and offered them relief funds to help them through this crisis.”

Christina Gustin
Sally Bixler
Bixler-Gustin Financial

The Bixler-Gustin Financial Group is an investment team of two experienced female Wealth Advisors in the Downtown San Diego office of UBS Financial Services, Inc. Sally Bixler and Christina Gustin, of RKG Wealth Management, formed their partnership to answer the call from women investors wanting to work with women advisors.

Current research indicates that women invest and think about investing differently than male counterparts; they are value-focused and like to take a planning-based approach to their decisions – precisely how Sally and Christina work. Sally and Christina assist clients to articulate their financial goals through honest dialogue that results in the presentation of a formal financial plan, providing a clear path towards meeting those goals. Taking the time to educate their clients about how the assets and allocations are used is essential to their process. They want each client to be engaged in the investing process, understanding and embracing their portfolio strategies and plans.

In 2017, Sally and Christina initiated a series of educational events for and about women: “What Women Need to Know.” Although interrupted by COVID-19, this program focuses on timely topics for women who may be facing issues like caring for a spouse with Alzheimer’s, aging parents, or the need for a will or trust, among others. They also discuss attributes of female leadership and meaningful community engagement with presenters who are all prominent professionals within the community.

Women like to share experiences and knowledge. Sally and Christina assist clients to articulate their financial goals. Sally and Christina’s work is a family-oriented culture. Xnergy’s team has a long track record of successfully delivering success is a result of her dedication to clients, insightful guidance, and business acumen. A nationally recognized leader in her field, Forbes Magazine listed her among the Top Women Wealth Advisors in 2019 and 2020, and among Forbes’ Best-in-State Advisors for 2019 and 2020. She has also been listed among America’s Top 100 Women Financial Advisors by Barron’s Magazine.

Courtney has appeared on both national and local media. She holds a finance degree from USC and is a Chartered Retirement Planning Counselor.

For over two decades, Courtney has provided wealth management services to affluent families, institutions, foundations, and businesses. Along with her dedicated team, she addresses complex financial issues using an in-depth planning-based approach that focuses on the goals and values of her clients.

Courtney is equally committed to community service. Courtney primarily focuses on homelessness, veteran, and health issues. As a board member of HumbleDesign, she assisted in bringing the Detroit based charity to San Diego, aiding disadvantaged families and veterans who are transitioning out of homelessness. Other charities she supports include the Gary Sinise Foundation, which supports disabled veterans and first responders, Mama’s Kitchen, UCSD Cardiovascular Center, and Sharp Hospital, among others. In 2007, Courtney received the YWCA Tribute to Women & Industry award for leadership in San Diego business. Finally, Courtney received a Congressional Certificate of Appreciation from the U.S. Congress for her support of military families.
